Civil Theft vs Conversion: What Is The Difference?

As a business owner in Florida, protecting your business assets is absolutely crucial. While theft typically leads to charges, there are situations where the loss of property access may not be considered civil theft but rather falls under the category of conversion.

It is common for people to mistakenly use the terms "theft" and "conversion" interchangeably. However, it's important to clarify these distinctions and provide guidance on how to protect your business from risks associated with civil theft and conversion.

Helpful Hints & Important Changes in the Law that You Need to Know About

Starting July 1 in Florida:

- Immigration: SB 1718 cracks down on businesses that hire undocumented immigrants and provides $12 million for Gov. Ron DeSantis' migrant relocation program. Hospitals that accept Medicaid must also ask patients about their immigration status on intake forms, which critics say could deter migrants from seeking care.
 - (CS/CS/SB 1718 \(flsenate.gov\))
- Insurer Accountability: SB 7052 puts more restrictions on property insurance companies to hold them more accountable for mishandling claims. Insurance providers will face more oversight and regulations as well as larger fines for any wrongdoing.
 - (_h1301er.docx \(flsenate.gov\))
- Parental Rights in Education ('Don't Say Gay' expansion): The legislation, HB 1069, expands the so-called "Don't Say Gay" law to ban classroom instruction on sexual orientation and gender identity in all grades.
 - (<https://www.flsenate.gov/Session/Bill/2023/1416/BillText/Filed/PDF>)
- Permit-less Carry: Under HB 543, Floridians who can legally own a gun will no longer need training or a permit to be able to carry concealed firearms.
- Education: HB 1069 prohibits school staffers from asking students about their preferred pronouns or discussing their own if it "does not correspond to such person's sex."
- Bathrooms: The legislation, HB 1521, makes it a crime for a person to use a bathroom intended for the sex opposite of what they're assigned at birth.
